04

Towards Sustainability

It is today impossible to deny that companies have played and still play a major role in creating sustainability problems. That does not prevent it from being difficult to understand our own impacts on the environment and society, and in the other way around, the impact of unsustainability on our own activities.

This first package “Recognize” aims to create a first building block for companies to understand the sustainability problem, its different dimensions and brainstorm on first courses of action.

4 reasons why your company needs this

Transparency is no longer an option

Customers and other stakeholders are asking companies to act responsibly and transparently.

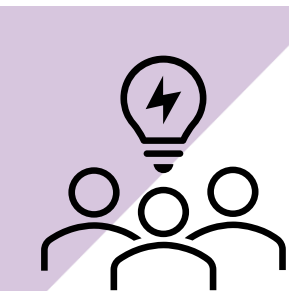

Upcoming regulations for SMEs

While regulations on sustainability reporting will become mandatory for SMEs in the coming years, SMEs which take care of it now can get a first-mover advantage.

Impact of sustainability reporting on financial performance

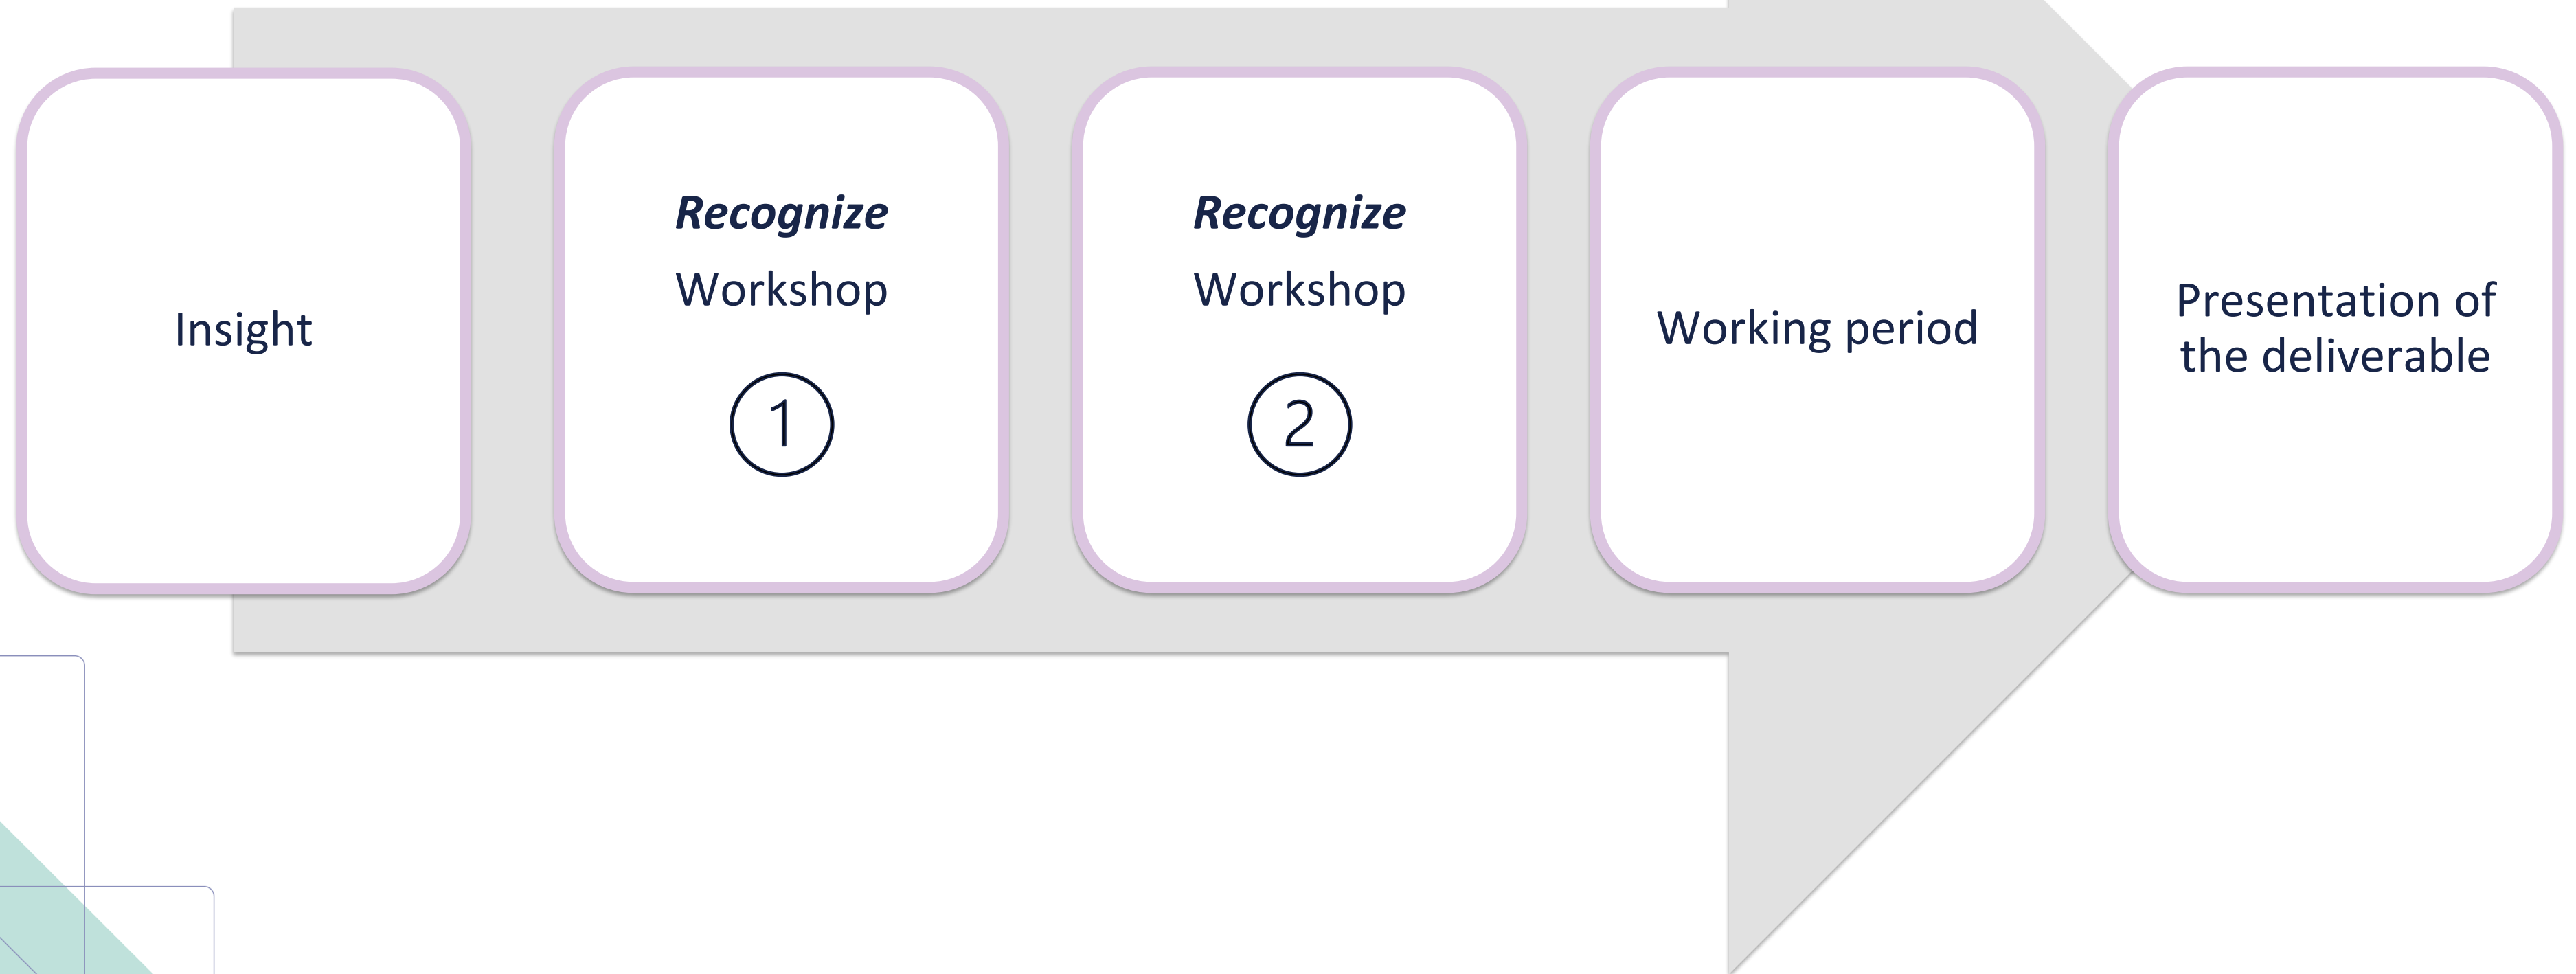

Research shows that organizations that have in place sustainable business models and sustainable reporting also have better financial results.

Your responsibility is an opportunity

Companies are responsible for creating the sustainability problem but can turn it into an opportunity for innovation.
